Anthony Lavoie named deputy director of Flight Projects

Marshall Center Director Art Stephenson has appointed Anthony R. Lavoie as deputy director of the Marshall Center's Flight Projects Directorate. In his more than 20-year career with NASA, Lavoie has been deeply involved in managerial and technical aspects of systems engineering for NASA programs and projects. He most recently served as Chandra program manager responsible for directing all Center and associated Chandra elements in the operation of the world's premier X-ray observatory.
